Review 1: The Fighter

David O. Russell's The Fighter, which was a definite Oscar nominee about the true story about Mickey 'Irish' Ward (Mark Wahlberg), an upcoming boxer in the small town Lowell, Massachusetts. His brother is Dicky Eklund (Christian Bale) is Mickey's crack addicted, ex-boxer, brother and coach who supposedly knock down Sugar Ray. Christian Bale Does a Magnificent performance as Mickey's brother and steals the show from Mark Wahlberg in my opinion. While Mickey is trying to make a career out of boxing while Dicky is at comeback of his own by filming a HBO documentary of his life and boxing career. Mickey soon see's that Dicky is not very committed to be in his corner being late to training sessions and not being honest with the family. After assaulting a police officer, Dicky is sent to prison just before an important fight. Mickey has no other choice but to depart with Dicky as a coach.

Before the fight that will get Mickey in to the championship fight Dicky tells Mickey some advice for the fight. Going against his new coach and girlfriends (Amy Adams) advice ends up winning the fight. Mickey soon finds out that he needs Dicky. Everyone in this Movie does a superb job of playing their character many honourable mentions to people like Melissa Leo who does a fantastic job as Mickey's Manager and extremely family orientated mother and Amy Adams who also does a great job as Mickey's girlfriend who's hated by Mickey's family. Overall if you like true stories or sports movies The Fighter is a Must see if not I still highly recommend this film.

Review 2: Never Say Never

Casting: Justin Bieber, Usher, Miley Cyrus, Jaden Smith, Sean Kingston, Snoop Dog, Ludacris.
Never say never is more of a documentary than movie. He takes you back to his home town Stratford in Canada and tells a little bit of where he grew up and some of his favourite places. Then he takes you on a tour around his grandparents' house where he spent most of his time.

*It shows where he started to all he has now. Justin also shows how he struggled to maintain a normal childhood being grounded despite the fame and recognition of him all the world. The movie also shows some footages of him at concerts singing his top hits including: Baby, Somebody to love and Never say never.

I'm not sure if it's going to be good or not. But basing on what I typed up there and reading everyone else's review of the movie. I personally don't think the movie is that good because there's nothing dramatic in the movie and has no action. Just showing his childhood, concerts and a tour around his grand-parents' house isn't really enough to make the movie to

Review 3: Limitless

Limitless has drugs and violence in it which is not suitable for a younger audience. This movie genre was put as Thriller but is not very thriller like to me. The running time for Limitless is 105 minutes.

Limitless is a movie about how there is this drug that can make you control 100% of your brain and I thought that it was a 3 out 5 because the movie was good and I liked how they did all the things like if you see something then it would be in your brain somewhere just waiting to explode into your mind again.

This movie wasn't as good as I expected because I thought it would be more happy even though it already was I still thought it would be more about a drug that helps disable people or a cure for cancer and other medical conditions. I thought that the drug was a legal drug that helps people and that can or will better someone by swallowing it. It turned out that the people used it for their own advantage to be better than others and do things that other people can't really do like, the brain will tell them something to do next.

It is a good movie but it's not worth go to watch it in the cinemas so don't waste your money.
